WAIT FOR THE LORD!

I am and have always been a pretty patient person. Some would say I am pretty laid back because I can settle in and wait with the best of them. Maybe I have been too patient at times, if that is even possible. But I must admit I have had a few struggles in life that have been crushing to my spirit. I felt crushed by the weight of the difficulty that was in my life at that moment. I felt suffocated and wanted that weight and burden lifted quickly because it seemed unbearable. It is hard to be patient in those moments of life!

I must confess that I have been impatient with God wanting something good to come out of those bad times. Again, I wanted that burden lifted from me quickly. I have prayed and prayed to understand why something has happened the way it has and become frustrated if that understanding didn't come on my timetable.

I hope I have learned from those times. I hope I have learned that what we are to do in those times is to wait on God. When tough times hit, waiting for God's help can feel challenging. But it's also a chance to grow closer to Him. Even when things seem out of control, we can trust that God has a plan and that He's with us every step of the way. So, instead of stressing about when things will get better, let's focus on drawing closer to God and finding comfort in His presence. He's our rock, our support, and He'll see us through the hard times.

"but they who wait for the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings like eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint."
