What's Wrong With Today's Youth?
by Bill Hall

All along we hear questions raised as to what has gone wrong with today's youth. Recently, a brother expressed his concern along this line and then asked, "What advice would you give young parents to help them avoid mistakes that we have made in our generation?"

The first thing we would say is: All is not bad with today's youth. We see young people in the church voluntarily attending special classes conducted for their benefit and studying diligently in preparation for these classes. We see them singing in the worship periods, listening to sermons, following in their Bible, obeying the gospel as they reach accountability, and living conscientiously before God.

But all is not good. We are aware of drug abuse, sexual promiscuity, drinking, gambling, and crimes of all sorts among the youth of our day. We are appalled at the lack of self control exhibited by athletes in both college and pro ranks. What has gone wrong?

A recent newspaper article helps to explain what has gone wrong. The opening paragraph says: "A high school football player who was arrested and charged with hitting a 15-year-old in the face with a crowbar has his coach concerned and his mother worried about his football future."

Worried about what? When parents are more concerned for their children's football future than they are for their character; when they are more concerned for their children's financial well-being than for their eternal well-being; or when they are just not concerned, period, we can expect problems among our youth. Priorities are all wrong. Too many parents, in order to feed their own egos, push their children into positions that will bring honor and popularity, but give little thought to what will build character and integrity and responsibility within them.

"And ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath; but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord" (Ephesians 6:4).

What advice would we give to young parents? Bring your children to every service of the church; encourage them to form close friendships with other children who attend regularly; do not try to shield them from hurts and disappointments, but allow them to work through their disappointments; hold them responsible for the consequences of wrong-doings; make sure that your greatest desire for them is that they go to heaven and that they are aware that this is your greatest desire; pray with them and teach them how to pray; and love them, love them, and love them some more. That's a good start anyway!

A Minute with Mac

What a wonderful week we had this past week. Cooler weather is finally here. If you are visiting with us today and are looking for a church home, we would love for you to consider Shiloh. There are a lot of great things happening here at Shiloh.

Thank you for all who came out and supported the Phillips family yesterday as they raised money for Brenda Phillips great-grandson. We all are looking forward to our trunk or treat and soup supper tonight after the evening services. I have it on good authority that Shaggy from Scooby Doo is going to make an appearance.

This morning we are finishing up our series of lessons on the haves and the have nots. This morning's sermon is entitled "Joy in the family of God" Also tonight we will be continuing our trek through 1st Peter as we look at 1 Peter 2:18-25 as we look to "Our Example," Jesus Christ.

Remember that we have began the Wednesday morning Bible Class at 10:00 a.m. each Wednesday. Also directly after the Wednesday morning bible study, Wes and I go to Curtis' restaurant and we host our CHAT session each week. There is no set study, we are just there to talk, fellowship, and answer any biblical question that you may have. Of course, we're also there to enjoy some good food. Please consider coming and joining us at Curtis' when you can.

Keep on keeping on and please invite all you know. Be sure to check out the church's Facebook page as we try to post something everyday to help you in your Christian walk. Also if you are not part of the private Shiloh COC group on Facebook, please join as we will try to give a weekly video update every Thursday about activities for the upcoming weekend. Also don't forget to check our website each week as we post the bulletin and the sermon outlines each Thursday. Remember, Welcome to Shiloh—Welcome Home!
