Loving One Another

When you consider the life of Jesus you come to understand quickly that Jesus loved people. He loved people that many often consider unlovable like thieves, prostitutes, tax collectors, diseased people, and poor people. We know also that He loved children and His followers deeply. He loved those who were devoted to Him and those who were different from Him. He even loved difficult and dangerous people. Jesus loved people!

His love is the same today, as it was then. Because we are loved by Him, we are called to love like Him. The extent, to which, we love one another bears out and conveys our faith (John 13:34-35). We find the New Testament contains 54 "one another" passages that teach us how to love. They are about relationships God's way. It is what God wants for us as His family.

So it is that we are to love like Jesus by living out the following "one another" passages...

Forgive one another (Colossians 3:13). The ultimate example of forgiveness was displayed when Jesus hung on the Cross and cried out for those who were crucifying Him: "Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they are doing" (Luke 23:34). We should forgive others even when they don't deserve it or ask for it. That demonstrates a love that keeps no record of wrongs (1 Corinthians 13:5).

Accept one another (Romans 15:7). To truly love someone, you must avoid trying to change the person for your own purposes. Accepting love is patient and kind, even when someone does not meet your expectations (1 Corinthians 13:4).

Honor one another (Romans 12:10). Honor means to esteem someone as highly valuable. It leads us to treat others as though they are personally autographed by God. When we value others above ourselves, we are emulating the attitude of Christ (Philippians 2:3-5).

But what if the person you are trying to love does not receive it? Loving others isn't always easy, but a Christ-like love means forgiving, accepting and honoring even those who are different and difficult. Our ability to love others comes from God (1 John 4:7). We can only give love when our hearts are full of God's love. That is the formula. Any other attempt at loving one another simply does not work.

Let us "Love One Another" God's way!
